

History Break at Hill Road Studios, Lewes

Come and discover how one of the USA's founding fathers came to influence not only the American, but the French revolution. Thomas Paine was a resident in Lewes, and his stay in the town was crucial in his early formation of radical thinking that would eventually lead to the modern world state.

Hill Road Studios is offering short breaks to include an illustrated talk, seminar style workshop and the opportunity to explore potential insights into Thomas Paine and late 18th century Lewes. Refreshments and a buffet lunch will be served. In the afternoon, a guided tour of the Georgian County Town of East Sussex will allow visitors a greater insight into the nooks, crannies and twittens of Lewes. Tom Paine Ale may be imbibed at some point on the walk if so desired!

Paul Myles' recently published book is included in the package along with a map of Lewes.
