

PRESS RELEASE

tidal* Severn, measure of time, season, ecology 27th August to 9th October 2010
upstairs at the GEORGE, Newnham on Severn, Gloucestershire

The upstairs team are pleased to present an exhibition of mixed media works by Gloucestershire based artists Suze Adams, Carolyn Black, Andrew Darke, Alice Jolly, Richard Keating and Kel Portman. The exhibition, which examines aspects of the River Severn, brings a variety of works together - photographs, text, soundscape, drawing, poetry - all of which expose a view. The artist is observer, diarist, philosopher, conservationist, activist. She/he sees, hears, feels, mulls and meditates, and in exploring comes to know. A book has been published to accompany the exhibition and can be previewed online:

A series of walks, talks and performances will take place throughout the duration of the show - see the attached flyer for details.

upstairs at the GEORGE is the new name for the George gallery at Newnham on Severn. The gallery is a short walk from the water's edge, near enough to experience the mysterious life affirming energy that is the Severn.

Visit our website <http://upstairsatthegeorge.co.uk> There you will find all the information on exhibitions, events and screenings as well as contact details for the upstairs team.
