The Churches Conservation Trust is a national charity protecting historic churches at risk. It has saved over 340 special buildings, which attract more than 1.5 million visitors a year. With the support of the Trust and visitors, they are kept open and free to all. The Trust's website will help you to explore their churches, through descriptions, images, stories and details of opening times and directions.

A Church Near You lists every church in the Church of England with maps, contact information and service times.

For information on individual churches in Kent, take a look at Kent Churches by John Vigar. John provides key architectural and historical facts on many churches throughout the county.
