Constable Country in the Dedham Vale

Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty
“Welcome to this enchanting and tranquil corner of England. We invite you to savour all that it has to offer and help us ensure it remains unspoiled and as beautiful as it is today, for future generations to enjoy.”

Robert Erith TD DL,
Chairman of the Dedham Vale AONB and Stour Valley Partnership
EXPLORE

With its gently rolling farmland, ancient woodlands, meandering river and picturesque villages, the Dedham Vale Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty (AONB) embraces one of our most cherished landscapes and is to many, a rural idyll and a prime example of the traditional, English lowland landscape.

Throughout the seasons, the landscape changes dramatically. In winter, the valley floor is clearly visible, occasionally blanketed in a carpet of fresh snow, while in spring and summer, the valley becomes more enclosed with leafy green lanes and woodland canopies. Autumn of course, brings with it a rainbow of warm, golden colours.

The Dedham Vale has been a source of creative inspiration for many artists and writers over the centuries, but is most well known for its connections with one of England’s greatest landscape painters: John Constable RA. The artist was born and grew up here and gave credit to a childhood spent in this captivating landscape, for making him the painter he became.

There are 46 AONBs in Great Britain and each is designated in recognition of their national importance to ensure that their character and qualities are protected for all to enjoy.

The Dedham Vale AONB covers an area of 90km² on the Suffolk-Essex border. It is one of the smallest AONBs and is unique in that the area’s cultural heritage was instrumental in securing this designation.

Visit the AONB website for more information and to download maps, walks and cycle routes

Lying in the Dedham Vale AONB, and straddling the border between Essex and Suffolk, Constable Country encompasses some of England's most instantly recognisable views and includes the villages of Dedham, East Bergholt and Flatford.
The area has affectionately become known as 'Constable Country', due to the strong connections with John Constable.

John Constable was born in East Bergholt in 1776 and spent much of his time in the countryside near his home. It was here that he developed a love of painting from an early age and he drew inspiration from his beloved Suffolk, which was to sustain him creatively, for the rest of his life.

Don't miss the Church of St. Mary the Virgin. The building of the bell tower was never completed, and the 'temporary' bell cage, which was built in 1531 to house the bells, has been in use ever since. The heaviest set of five bells currently being rung in England, it is remarkable that they are rung by hand!

Follow in Constable's footsteps and walk down Fenbridge Lane in East Bergholt, alongside the River Stour to Dedham in Essex, where John attended school.

Dedham is perhaps the most well known village in Constable Country; with its vibrant high street, magnificent church, the Sir Alfred Munnings Art Museum, a bustling art and craft centre and a fascinating history. It's a village which truly does have something for everyone.

The tiny hamlet of Flatford is a pleasant 40 minute walk across the fields from Dedham and was the source of many of Constable's most famous works. It remains little changed since the artist lived here in the late 18th century.

Bridge Cottage, owned by the National Trust, houses an exhibition about Constable and there is also a tea room where you can sit by the river and take your time over lunch or a cream tea.

Courses in environmental and arts-based subjects are run in Flatford Mill by the Field Studies Centre and the RSPB have a dedicated wildlife garden in Flatford, where visitors can sit and relax, and learn all about wildlife gardening.

Boat trips are on offer during the summer on the River Stour between Flatford and Dedham. Visitors can hire a rowing boat or take a peaceful trip with the River Stour Trust in one of their electric boats.

See the area as Constable did, by taking a guided walk to the scenes of some of his most famous works, with a National Trust guide.

Other villages

There are many other gems worth exploring in the Dedham Vale, including Stoke by Nayland with its splendid church, often painted by Constable; the pretty village of Nayland on the banks of the River Stour; Stratford St Mary, with many fine timbered buildings and an excellent farm shop; and Polstead, another lovely village, with its beautifully positioned church with views across the valley.

Cultural Connections

The charming villages, rolling landscape, meandering River Stour and ancient woodland have moved artists and writers through the centuries to create some of their greatest work.

Stay a while in this peaceful corner of rural England and discover just what inspired these great names ...

As well as being the birthplace of John Constable, the Stour Valley was also home to another of Britain's most famous painters. Known for his landscapes and portraits, Thomas Gainsborough was born in 1727 in nearby Sudbury, where his home is now open as a museum and gallery.

Born in Suffolk in 1878, Sir Alfred Munnings was a talented equestrian artist as well as a painter of portraits and landscapes and a wonderful sculptor. His home and studio, on the outskirts of Dedham, is open to the public.

John Nash was an esteemed painter, illustrator and engraver who spent many years of his life in his beloved Bottengoms Farm in Wormingford. Initially his works were focussed on war, but following the end of WW1, his attention turned to the alluring landscape of the Dedham Vale and Stour Valley.

Father of BBC correspondent Martin Bell, Adrian Bell was a journalist, farmer and author who went on to compile The Times crossword. Bell lived for many years in Suffolk, at one time just across the Stour Valley from his friend John Nash. Nash helped Bell by illustrating his book Men and the Fields with woodcuts and engravings.

'Sexton Blakes'
Tom Keating was famous for reputedly forging over 2000 works of more than one hundred artists. Although never successful in his own right, he found fame in the 1980s through his imitations, which he called his Sexton Blakes (Cockney rhyming slang for fakes) which, since his death, have become increasingly sought after. Keating is buried in Dedham churchyard.

On the Water
The River Stour provides a fantastic opportunity for seeing the Vale from a different angle. Get close to nature on the river, either under your own steam by canoeing or hiring a rowing boat, or you can take a gentle potter on an electric powered boat, with the River Stour Trust which operates from Flatford.

Walking
One of the best ways to explore the area is on foot. There are many established walks to take you off the beaten track and into some stunning landscapes which were so inspirational to Constable. There are many circular and linear walks; to add a sense of adventure, you can download some of our geocaching leaflets and hunt down treasures as you make your way through the Dedham Vale.

Fishing
The River Stour provides many opportunities for coarse fishing. If you want to fish around Flatford, you must first purchase a day ticket.

Walk The Stour Valley Path
This 60 mile route meanders through the tranquil countryside of the Stour Valley, from Newmarket near the source of the River Stour, to Cattawade near Manningtree, where the river joins the estuary. The Stour Valley Path Guide includes ten route cards with maps and information. It’s available at information centres or to download at dedhamvalestourvalley.org

Cycling
Enjoying the Dedham Vale from the saddle guarantees plenty of gorgeous scenery and a great workout too. The area lends itself perfectly to cycling with its network of quiet country lanes and gently undulating terrain; it’s easy and enjoyable for cyclists of all abilities.

Wildlife
The Dedham Vale is home to a wide range of plant and animal species and habitats, many of which have been in serious decline over the last sixty years. The Dedham Vale AONB and Stour Valley Project are striving to reverse this trend by working with landowners to plant more trees, orchards and pollinating plants, and maximise provision of suitable habitats for vulnerable species such as barn owl, otter and dormouse.

Why not enjoy the area at its more tranquil time, by taking a peaceful evening stroll, with the setting sun providing an impressive backdrop; or visit mid-week or in the autumn/winter.
GETTING HERE

The Dedham Vale is a quiet, rural area and the country lanes can quickly become congested. Although it is perhaps easier to travel here by car, the area is well served with good public transport services, so why not consider alternatives?
By train:
London Liverpool Street, Harwich, Colchester, Ipswich and Norwich all connect with Manningtree Station, as does Sudbury (via Marks Tey) using the Gainsborough Line. Flatford is a pleasant 40 minute walk from Manningtree Station, along way-marked footpaths.

By coach/bus:
A daily service runs to Ipswich and Colchester and passengers can travel onwards via local bus or train to the Dedham Vale. The main villages throughout the area are served by regular local bus services.
